The Big Sky

From the eye-stretching plains of eastern Montana to the mile-high valleys of the mountain west, Montana's sky sets a stage of dramatic proportions. Here the skyline is drawn not by the architectural achievements of man, but by the jagged profile of the Crazy Mountains rising abruptly from the plains, the setting sun spreading a dozen shades of purple over the Rocky Mountain Front, the swell of late-afternoon thunderheads highballing across the western sky or the classic lines of migrating snow geese.

The Big Sky is firmly grounded in the Montana mindset. We can't take our eyes off it. Neither will you.

The Parks

Revered worldwide as the “crown of the North American continent,” Glacier National Park fulfills America’s need for wild sanctuary. To hikers, it is the nation’s foremost trail park. To wildlife watchers, it provides privileged views of mountain goats and bighorn sheep, the grizzly bear and gray wolf. To the Blackfeet Indians, it is the holy place of the Everywhere Spirit. Similarly, Yellowstone National Park is a globally unique environment that stages a natural freak show of spouting geysers and boiling sulphur caldrons in an otherwise peaceful kingdom. Here elk and buffalo roam lush meadows and swans share fabled waters with wild cut-throat and rainbow trout. Between these two world treasures lie national wildlife refuges, recreation areas, battlefields, historic sites and state parks that feature Montana’s natural, historic and recreational attractions.

Montana's outdoor recreational opportunities are unrivaled. Nearly 17 million acres of national forest; three million acres of untrammeled wilderness; two national parks; seven national wildlife refuges; 313 state parks, recreation areas, fishing access sites; and range after range of rugged Rocky Mountains make Montana the first choice of people who love the outdoors. Explore the backcountry of Glacier and Yellowstone, the beloved Bob Marshall Wilderness and equally appealing getaways like the Jewel Basin, Northwest Peaks Scenic Area, Gates of the Mountains and Makoshika State Park. Raft the Albion Gorge and Yankee Jim Canyon or canoe the Upper Missouri National Wild and Scenic River.

Montana is a haven for wildlife and wildlife watchers. The spacious, unspoiled environment supports species as rare as the grizzly bear and bald eagle, along with an abundance of elk, deer, moose, mountain goats, bighorn sheep, waterfowl and songbirds. Look for wildlife in their natural habitat. A binocular symbol marks each of 113 wildlife viewing sites described in the Montana Wildlife Viewing Guide (to order, call 1-800-582-BOOK). Veer off the beaten path between Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks and discover Freezout Lake Wildlife Management Area, where some 200,000 snow geese gather in the spring or visit the Rocky Mountain Front, a natural haven for golden eagles. Montana's national forests, wilderness areas, wildlife refuges and state parks are windows on the natural world.

The History

Meade Hotel, Bannack State Park/Wayne Mumford

Butte's Copper King Mansion/John Reddy

Only 100 years old, Montana has a young, hands-on history that springs to life at every corner. Discover it in the gold camps of Virginia City and Bannack State Park or the mansions and miners' union halls of Butte. Feel it as you walk among the graves at Custer Battlefield, and view it in the paintings of America's beloved cowboy artist, Charlie Russell. Trace it along the Missouri River, highway of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Montana's history is celebrated at rodeos, ethnic festivals and Indian powwows across the state. It is preserved in major collections at the Museum of the Plains Indian in Browning, the Russell Museum in Great Falls, the Museum of the Rockies in Bozeman, the Western Heritage Center in Billings and the Montana Historical Society in Helena.

In Montana, the West is alive and working hard. At action-packed rodeos with names like the Wildhorse Stampede and the Bucking Horse Sale, where cowboy skills are put to the test. At Indian powwows and pageants, where the traditional dancing and dress are as colorful as the ancient rituals they celebrate. At the renowned C.M. Russell Auction of Original Western Art and the annual buffalo roundup at the National Bison Range. At guest ranches, where visitors turn in their wheels for a sure-footed horse. At chuckwagon cookouts, fiddling contests and county fairs across the state.

Many of Montana's most popular getaways are working ranches where guests become part of the crew and learn what it's like to live off the land. But you don't have to choose a ranch vacation to discover the spirit of the modern West. You'll see it on every street corner in Montana and feel it in the friendliness of everyone you meet.

The Comforts

Patio dining in Billings/David Scott Smith, Exclamation Point Adv.

In Montana you can have it both ways. Greet the day with buckwheats and bacon on a breakfast trail ride and end it with roast pheasant and Beaujolais in an intimate country dining room. (You'll find some of Montana's most distinguished chefs in the most out-of-the-way places.) Browse our shops and galleries or leave your shopping list behind and explore some of America's most magnificent backcountry. Improve your swing at a championship golf course in a spectacular mountain setting or test your mettle on an extended trek or bicycle tour. Whether you choose a high-rise hotel or a hot springs resort, a mountain lodge or a state park campground, you'll find comfort and quality at affordable prices.

The People

Dressed up for Crow Fair/Michael Crummett

In Montana, you'll find an infectious love for the land and the lifestyle of the West. You'll see it in the faces of Montanans and the way we treat our guests. There aren't very many of us—not even a million—spread over 93 million acres of mountains and high plains. So we welcome visitors and look forward to sharing our home with you. Here, we look you straight in the eye when we talk to you and show you the kind of hospitality Charlie Russell was talking about when he said: "My brother, when you come to my lodge, the robe will be spread and the pipe of peace will be lit."

Glacier

COUNTRY

Mountain goat/Mike Sample

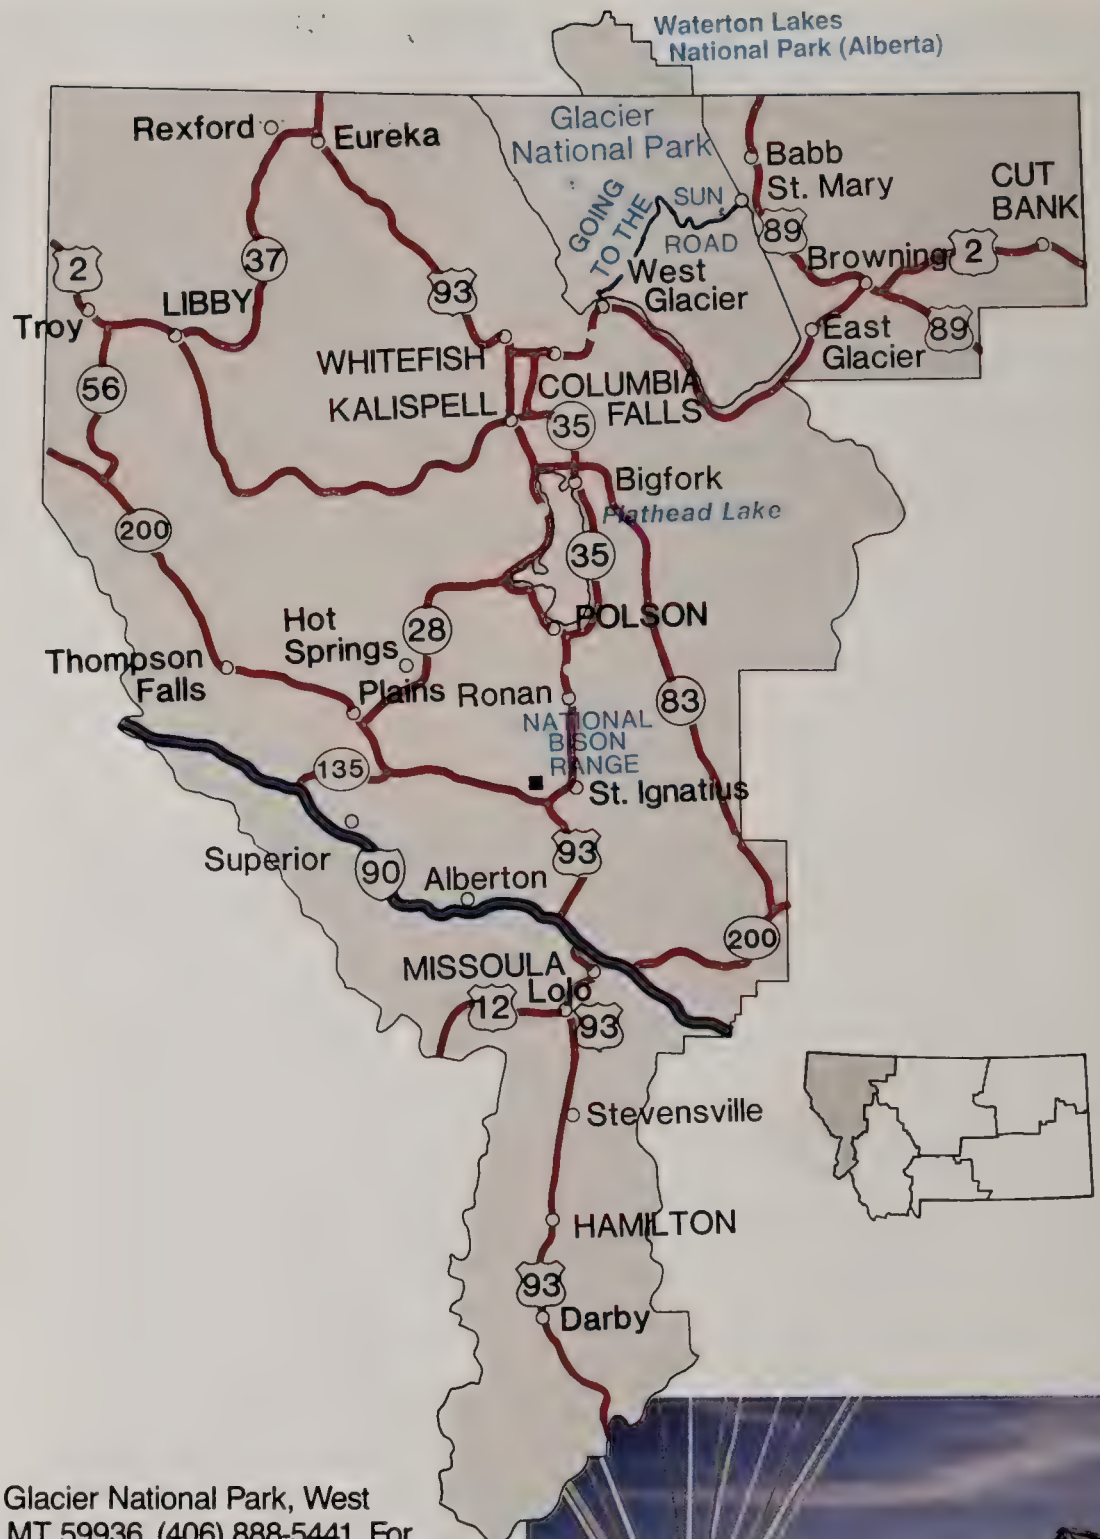

Glacier Country is Montana's north-west corner, where lofty mountains set the pace and the rest of the region has no trouble keeping up. Here, you will find magnificent Glacier National Park, watchable wildlife, wild rivers, wilderness and lakes scattered like jewels. There are scenic golf courses, vacation resorts, guest ranches, galleries and museums and summer theater. Attractions listed below are keyed to the Montana Highway Map. Phone numbers are reached by the 406 area code. For more information about Glacier Country, call 756-7128.

Major Attractions

Glacier National Park. Lying in a rugged section of the Northern Rockies, Glacier Park adjoins Waterton Lakes National Park in Alberta, Canada, to create Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park—an ideal “two-nation vacation.” Going-to-the-Sun Road, a spectacular 55-mile highway through Glacier, crosses the Continental Divide at Logan Pass and traverses the towering Garden Wall. Overall vehicle length cannot exceed 30 feet on this highway, normally open from early June into October. America's foremost trail park, Glacier has more than 700 miles of foot and horse trails. Guided hikes, horseback trips and boat tours are available. Accommodations in the park, open June-September, range from hike-in mountain chalets to historic hotels and lodges. Year-round accommodations are available just outside the park. For information about the park, contact Glacier National Park, West Glacier, MT 59936, (406) 888-5441. For reservations, call 226-5551 (mid-May to mid-Sept.) or (602) 248-6000 (mid-Sept. to mid-May). For chalet information, call 888-5511. (A-2)

Flathead Lake. Between Kalispell and Polson. Largest natural freshwater lake in the western U.S. Renowned for its fishing, the lake is bordered by six state parks, plus Wild Horse Island State Park accessible only by boat. Boat tours include the diesel-powered Far West from Somers (837-5569), the 51' racing sloop Questa from Bigfork (883-2448) and the 41' tour boat Port Polson Princess from Polson (800-332-7148). House boat rentals are also available in Polson (883-3700). (B,C-2)

Missouri River

COUNTRY

Missouri River Country is Montana's northeast corner, where a great river sets the theme for the entire landscape. Here, everything is big. Prairie stretches from horizon to horizon with ranches measured in miles. Fort Peck Lake offers more than a thousand miles of shoreline. Millions of waterfowl take to the Big Sky from sprawling wildlife refuges. Attractions listed below are keyed to the Montana Highway Map. Phone numbers are reached by the 406 area code unless otherwise noted. For more information about Missouri River Country, call 654-1776.

Major Attractions

Fort Peck Dam and Lake. 18 miles S of Glasgow. One of the world's largest dams impounds the Missouri River, forming a giant lake with 1600 miles of shoreline. Popular area for boating, fishing, camping, sightseeing and home of the annual Governor's Cup Walleye Tournament. Learn the history of this massive 1930s public works project at the Power Plant museum in Fort Peck and view fossils recovered from area. Tours. 526-3411. (C-10)

Charles M. Russell National Wildlife Refuge. Between MT 24 and US 191, S of Glasgow and Malta, N of Jordan. Million-acre wilderness surrounding Fort Peck Lake consists of prairies, coulees, river bottoms, breaks and badlands. Wildlife includes deer, elk, antelope, bighorn sheep, waterfowl, upland game, fish. Camping, boating; scenic wildlife

Little Rocky Mountains. 40 miles SW of Malta on US 191. An island of mountains on the plains, the area is rich in Old West romance and valuable mineral deposits. Legend has it that Butch Cassidy and Kid Curry hid out here. Gold-mining arrived in 1884 and by World War II, the Little Rockies had yielded $25 million in gold. Tour (summers only) a modern gold-mining operation at Pegasus Gold's Zortman Mine (reservations, 673-3252). Campgrounds near Zortman and Landusky make good base camps for fishing at nearby reservoirs. 654-1240. (C-8)

Fort Union Trading Post National Historic Site. North Dakota border: NE of Sidney, off Hwy 200, E of Culbertson, off US 2, or SE of Bainville on Rt. 327. Missouri River's pre-eminent fur trading post from 1830s to the Civil War, Fort Union was a colorful mix of riverboaters, fur traders, Plains Indian tribes and frontier capitalists. Bourgoise House, once the setting of elegant dinners for distinguished guests, is now a Visitor Center, interpreting one of the most colorful eras of the westward expansion. Open daily. Custer Custer Country derives its name from the most famous Indian battle in U.S. history. It was here that Lt. Col. George Armstrong Custer lost his life in 1876 against an underestimated force of Sioux and Cheyenne warriors. Here, too, are vast cattle ranches, Indian reservations, the fabled Yellowstone and Bighorn rivers and Montana's largest city. Attractions listed below are keyed to the Montana Highway Map. Phone numbers are reached by the 406 area code. For more information about Custer Country, call 665-1671.

COUNTRY

Major Attractions

Custer Battlefield National Monument. 15 miles S of Hardin on I-90. Memorializes one of the last armed efforts of Northern Plains Indians to preserve their traditional way of life against the encroachment of white civilization. In June 1876, more than 260 soldiers and attached personnel of the U.S. Army were killed by an overwhelming number of Sioux and Cheyenne warriors. Among the dead was Lt. Col. George Armstrong Custer. Battlefield includes visitor center, museum, National Cemetery, memorial site of the 7th Cavalry at Reno-Bentzen Battlefield, guided battlefield tours and interpretive programs. Open year-round. 638-2621. (G-9)

Bighorn Canyon National Recreation Area. 42 miles S of Hardin on Hwy 313. Stunning canyon scenery, boating, lake and stream fishing make this one of Montana's most attractive recreation sites. Bighorn Lake, created by 525-ft.-high Yellowtail Dam, is located within the canyon's spectacular limestone walls. The lake is 71 miles long and provides great walleye fishing. Below the dam, Bighorn River is one of Montana's premier trout streams. Additional canyon attractions are scenic drives, hiking trails, naturalist-guided trips, interpretive programs and campgrounds. Outside the park, year-round accommodations and services are available at Fort Smith, Hardin and Lovell. 666-2412. (G-8)

Makoshika State Park. Snyder Ave., Glendive. The Sioux Indians had a name for this place—Makoshika, meaning “bad earth” or “bad land.” In addition to unusual scenery, these badlands contain fossil remains of some of the area’s earlier inhabitants—the tyrannosaur and triceratops dinosaurs. Also a popular viewing area for turkey vultures. Scenic drives, nature trails, campgrounds, picnic sites, archery and shooting ranges. User fee. 365-8596. (D-12)

Montana Agates. Along the Yellowstone River, which parallels I-94 and MT 16, from Custer to Sidney. The Yellowstone is renowned for the quality and abundance of agates found on its shores. Sometimes called plume or moss agates, Montana agates are famous for the variety of scenic designs sealed permanently in the stone’s interior. Inquire locally for guide service or tips on searching out these gems. Petrified wood, colored jaspers and fossils are also common in the area. (F-9 to C-12)

Fishing. As Montana’s rivers move east, fishing becomes more varied. Enjoy trout fishing at its best on the Bighorn River below Yellowtail Dam (G-9). The catch ranges from channel catfish, sauger and walleye to the ancient paddlefish on the Lower Yellowstone River (F-9 to C-12). Bighorn Lake is a popular walleye fishery (G-8), the Musselshell is known for its trout and catfish (E-7), and the Tongue River Reservoir boasts excellent bass, crappie, walleye and northern pike fishing (G-10).

Ashland

Northern Cheyenne Indian Reservation. On US 212, between the Crow Reservation and the Tongue River. Home of the “Morning Star” people. Of special interest are the Cheyenne Indian Museum, featuring Indian artifacts and The Little Coyote Gallery, St. Labre Indian School and the Ashland Powwow (early Sept.). Lame Deer, 21 miles W, is headquarters for the tribe and home of the Northern Cheyenne Powwow (July 4th weekend). (G-10)
